A Bird of An Idea!

—by—

SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Mrs. Roosevelt, ever busy with good deeds, has given us a very valuable and very practical idea. She wants to change the habits of birds. As I see immense possibilities in the suggestion, not only for our feathered friends, but as a cure for unemployment and depression. I quote her exact words: "Ever since I read the account of how exhausted the birds are when they reach their destination after their migration from the North, I have wondered if there is any way in which their habits might be changed."

Ever ready to assist in good works, I began to inquire why birds migrate, the number of said birds, and the number of people who might be employed in changing their habits. For surely, if sea-captains, over hundreds of years have taught parrots to talk politely, we can without doubt, in a few centuries of time, cure the exhaustion suffered by our migratory friends.

Well, here is the problem. It is a big one, but if we all put our hands to the wheel under Mrs. Roosevelt's inspiring leadership, who shall say us "nay"?

It is truly an interesting task. It takes us back to the Pleistocene epoch, of the Quaternary period of the Cenozoic era. That's when the birds began to get their migratory habits. It was, say, 25,000 to 100,000 years ago. This was the period known as the Ice Age. During thousands of years, this old earth of ours would grow warmer around its middle, the warmth slowly moving north and melting the ice farther and farther toward the North Pole. The birds followed the retreating ice. Then, the pendulum started back toward the Equator. Huge glaciers 1,000 miles long pushed south to the Ohio River and my home in South Bend, Indiana, was under a mile of ice. Well, naturally, as the ice cap followed on the heels of the retreating warmth, the birds were forced slowly south for worms, gnats and bugs.

This huge and ponderous march of ice, first north, then south, was repeated four or five times over thousands of years, and so the birds got the bright idea of winging it south when it got cold, and flying north when it got warm.

In those good old days there were other things at work forming bad bird habits. First, more land where the insect-loving birds could live, then more water where they must die. In that far-off morning of the world "when you were a tad-

Several Are Invited To A Local Shower

Mrs. Roy Pettis, the former Miss Noma Albright, Walnut street, was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening given by Mrs. Horace Carson, Mulberry street. The guests were assembled at the Carson home when Mrs. Pettis arrived. From a large white bell suspended in the living room red and white streamers extended to gifts in a basket on the floor. A large red heart on which was seated a doll dressed as a bride formed the table centerpiece. Small red and white baskets filled with candies were favors. Refreshments were served.

The invitation list included: Mrs. Fred Bennett, Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Theodore Jones, Orbisonia; Mrs. Ellsworth Campbell, Mrs. J. Cales and Miss Jacqueline Crossley, Morristown; Mrs. Norman Connolly and Miss Katharine Sampson, Burlington, N. J.; Miss Mary Mahon, Cornwells Heights; the Misses Stella Klemczak, Theresa Dugan, "Betty" Somers, Mary McLean, Elizabeth Bailey, Ethel Miller, Vivian Fisher, Betty Campbell, Sarah Albright, Elizabeth Smith, Hannah Bracken; Mrs. James Guy, Mrs. Wilhelmina Mumby, Mrs. G. Williams, Mrs. Wilbur Albright, Mrs. Jenkins Ott, Mrs. Adelaide Wilson, Mrs. Elwood Smith, Mrs. Anthony Pfaffenrath.

SCOUT AFFAIRS MARK
36TH ANNIVERSARY

Dinners, Parties, Etc., Conducted in All Parts of Bucks County

1 IS COURT OF HONOR

Events incident to the 36th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America are being carried out in all communities where scouts and cubs are organized in Bucks County. The events started on Friday evening with a scout party in Doylestown for the Doylestown troops, which was conducted by Explorer Post 24. A parent dinner in Tiverton Service Club soon nights in Doylestown, Quakertown, Andalusia, Chalfont, Morrisville and Sellersville, a scout and father dinner in Lower Makefield and Troop 6 of Doylestown, are part of the schedule for the week. The first annual Seascout dinner for all Seascouts will be held at the Doylestown Inn on Monday, February 18th.

The outstanding council event of the whole anniversary program was the County Court of Honor which was held in Doylestown on Sunday afternoon at the court house, with a capacity attendance to take part in the events. A group of 13 Eagle Scouts were presented with their Eagle badges, and this number exceeded the record of any previous year in the history of the Bucks County Council. The Eagle Scouts are: C. P. Morgan, Troop No. 3, Morrisville; Samuel S. Permar, Troop No. 5, Churchville; Juergen Meusel, Troop No. 8, Hartsville; John Smith, Troop No. 1, Sellersville; Harry S. Hoffman, Jr., S. Russell Willard and E. Burke Marks, Troop No. 10, Lower Makefield; Richard C. Hoxworth, Explorer Post No. 124, Doylestown; Edward R. Cronce, Seascout Ship "Constitution," Milford; and William Brasch, Allan Gleason, Otto Grupp, 3rd, and Bernard Stiles, Troop No. 69, Croydon. The badges were presented during an inspiring court scene at which Hon. Calvin S. Boyer, chairman of the Council's Advancement Committee, presided. He was assisted in the presentation of the Eagle awards by Hon. Hiram H. Keller and Rev. Alexander D. Davidson, council president.

Mrs. Rebecca Randall had as recent guests her brother, Alfred Morgan, and the latter's son, George, of Schwenksville.

EDGELY

Mr. and Mrs. James Coyle left Monday by motor for Taft, Cal. En route, they will visit several places of interest.

Mrs. Frank B. Jackson is recuperating from an attack of grippe.

Miss Susan Van Orden, Morrisville, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Stackhouse.

Mrs. Arthur Seyfer has been ill at her home for the past few days.

PLANETARY PERSPECTIVE

The business of bounding radar pulses off the moon has resulted in renewed scientific speculation about the existence of human life on other planets. It has given new angles to the fascinating question of whether the inhabitants could communicate with such beings if they exist.

Army communications officers now are contemplating the possibility of generating enough power to send radar messages to such distant spots in the heavens as Mars and Venus. Said one officer:

"I see no reason why, eventually, a form of Morse code by radar could not be transmitted to some of the celestial bodies about which conjecture has been made that life exists."

It can be taken for granted that radar sets of sufficient power for this operation will be developed. The next problem would have to do with the matter of possible replies, provided life exists and the men of Mars or the ladies of Venus feel like answering.

In what language would the answers be? Maybe this problem wouldn't be so tough at that. American cryptographers cracked the Japanese code before Pearl Harbor—they might be able also to decipher celestial conversations.

Or maybe they could get a little help from Orson Welles. Remember his radio scare about the Mars holobombs? He might know something. And if he does, he apparently can be relied upon to talk.

The possibilities unquestionably are intriguing. Some lack of enthusiasm over the prospects may be discovered among the young, though. Language lessons of the future are going to be really tough.

PEOPLE, SHIPS AND FISH

In addition to the larger aspects, military and scientific, of the United States atomic bomb experiments in mid-Pacific, will be matters involving personality and sentimentality.

In the first place, what is to be the fate of the pacetime natives of the Marshall Islands, where the man-made earthquake is to be loosed? The 161 living on Bikini atoll, whose spacious lagoon is to accommodate the gunnery fleet, will be evacuated permanently. Inhabitants of other islands, as far as 200 miles away, are to be removed temporarily. Fish and wild life of the whole area face utter destruction, but they are described by the United States Fish and Wild Life Service as only of local importance.

Nobody cares about how many Jap or German warships are destroyed, but there will be regret that some of Uncle Sam's famous old men-of-war also are earmarked for possible disintegration. But their final sacrifice, if it is really to be, will be in the service of their country. The Navy needs them now to determine the effect of the atomic bomb on future ship design and on the whole concept of warfare.

Such an approach would destroy nearly all the protection intended to be given to individual and public rights under the State's anti-sidetown strike law.

If there cannot be immediate relief—if under such a theory as that of Judge Jones violent picketing in defiance of law and contract cannot be promptly restrained, then the delays of protracted public hearings would give malicious-minded union strong-arm squads time to commit untold violence and destruction.

Better to carry on to a glorious end in the tradition of the Navy than to rot and rust for years in the mudbanks where proud ships die.

PICKET LINE RIOTS

His principal objection to supporting the temporary injunction issued by Judge Sara M. Soffel of Allegheny County Common Pleas is on the grounds that insufficient proof was brought before her to show mass picketing existed.

In two respects, this takes Justice Jones on exceedingly thin legal ice.

For one thing, as a general rule it is the duty of appellate courts such as the Supreme Court to pass only on the law. Questions of fact are customarily considered the responsibility of the lower court. If Judge Soffel had evidence enough to satisfy her of the fact, there seems no good reason why Judge Jones, alone of the Supreme Court membership, should question it.

More important, however, is his specific objection that the preliminary or temporary injunction was issued without, in his words, "a hearing on the merits of material issues of fact."

One must live in an ivory tower indeed not to have a pretty good idea what goes on in picket lines—without holding a formal hearing. The movies have been full of action pictures, and the newspapers and magazines of photographs, of unrestrained violence and intimidation.

But abundant evidence was laid before the lower court of mass and violent picketing in violation of the previous agreement. This was in the form of sworn affidavits. Calling these, as Justice Jones does, "self-serving injunction affidavits" and "untested affidavits," doesn't alter their status.

They were made under oath. If they were fraudulent, the authors are liable for perjury and possibly for conspiracy. Moreover, so far as their credibility is concerned, it surely is not too much to say that someone who would lie under oath in writing would lie also on the witness stand.

There is a further legal point involved, however, which from the layman's point of view makes Justice Jones' position all the more illogical.

What was before the court was not a permanent injunction, but a temporary one. The Supreme Court did not uphold a contention that this be made permanent; it upheld only the temporary injunction, and ordered further hearings before Judge Soffel to determine the question of whether permanent injunction should be issued.

What is the distinction between temporary and permanent injunctions?

Here is a definition in layman's language:

"Where a proper case is made the court grants a prohibitory injunction. In case of emergency the injunction will be temporary and will continue in force until the hearing, when if the complainant makes out his case the injunction will be made perpetual."

(Hall-Fishback, "Elementary Law.")

Under this light, it is obvious that Justice Jones' reasoning would prohibit temporary injunctions because they do not conform to the requirements for permanent injunctions. His view would in effect wipe temporary injunctions out of existence.

Such an approach would destroy nearly all the protection intended to be given to individual and public rights under the State's anti-sidetown strike law.

If there cannot be immediate relief—if under such a theory as that of Judge Jones violent picketing in defiance of law and contract cannot be promptly restrained, then the delays of protracted public hearings would give malicious-minded union strong-arm squads time to commit untold violence and destruction.

Justice Jones would do well to study again the ringing assertion in the majority opinion:

"The law cannot temporize with lawlessness."

pole and I was a fish," the British Islands were not islands at all. They were connected by a land bridge to the European continent stretching to Iceland and points west. Australia and South America were all one and these early birds in search of worms could hop merrily along with dry feet from one continent to another.

It was quite an education the birds got. The Arctic tern, for example, flies back and forth every year from Patagonia to Alaska, some 10,000 miles each way. The vast size of the job of re-educating him and his friends is apparent.

However, only 225 of the 1,000 species of North American birds fly as far south as the Gulf of Mexico. This reduces the size of the task to which Mrs. Roosevelt so nobly summons us.

With our task of changing bad bird habits limited to its true size, we can begin to measure the job that confronts us. Just how many migratory birds—robins, wrens, ducks, geese, crows, etc.—there are, no one knows. There has never been a complete bird census! This is something our bureaucrats have neglected.

However, after consulting our scientific experts, I believe that in the Western Hemisphere alone there are at least 5,689,762,876 birds. This is about 40 for each of the 135,000,000 of us.

Now we come to the practical part. I propose that every unemployed person be assigned 40 or more migratory birds on a Federal Good Habit Bird Forming Project, No. XQ-719-Z. He might start with a dozen of the Arctic tern as they fly the farthest, and get the most exhausted. It will be his job to change the habits of these birds. The project must of course wait until Mrs. Roosevelt is through straightening out all the bad habits of mankind. But when that is done to her complete satisfaction, I propose that she be made Secretary of Birds with full Cabinet rank and unlimited funds.

CHEMICAL MIXERS FALTER AT END AND LOSE GAME

American Steel Defeats Rohm & Haas by Score of 56 to 40

GAME HARD FOUGHT

Teams Were Even During Most of Contest, With Teams Battling

Rohm & Haas faltered in the last quarter of its game with American Steel on the Maple Beach clubhouse floor last night and went down to a 56-40 defeat in a Mercer County League contest.

For three quarters the two clubs battled on even terms and at the half-time mark, the Bristol boys were ahead, 25-23. But in the final session, Gene Warwick and Kremel scored enough points to clinch the game for the visitors.

Joe Roe and Ralph Cahill were high men for the chemical mixers while Warwick scored 20 points for the league-leading American Steel quintet.

Last minute difficulties caused the postponement of the Rohm and Haas girls-Pemberton contest and also the league match scheduled between Kaiser Cargo and the J. A.

Roebing aggregation.

FRANKLIN FIVE BEATS CATHOLIC BY TEN POINTS

Winners Were Battled To A Standstill in 1st Half, But Pace Was Too Fast

FINAL SCORE, 40 TO 30

Barbetta and Fiorello Paced The Franklin Attack and Scored Heavily

Although it battled the Franklin team-to-a-standstill in the first half, the Catholic Boys' Club could not stand the pace and went down to a 40-30 defeat in a Bristol Youth League match on the Mutual Aid floor.

The Catholic Boys were held to seven points in the second half by the tight defense of the Franklin boys who are now sitting comfortably in first place. The winners scored 17 points during the second half after the first twenty minutes had ended 23-23.

Gene Barbetta and "Lefty" Fiorello paced the Franklin attack with 12 and 14 points, respectively, while "Tommy" Kervick again was the Catholic mainstay with 13 points.

Veteran awards were made by William Burgess, Jr., Scout Commissioner. A Bronze Eagle Palm was awarded to William Meyers of Croydon and Silver Eagle Palms, which are awarded to scouts who qualify for 15 additional merit badges beyond those required for Eagle, were given to Charles and William Witmer, of Sellersville. Charles, who is in the armed services, is a member of Air Scout Squadron No. 1, of Sellersville, and William is a member of the Sell-Perk Sea Scout Srip "Ranger."

"The Shirts-Off-Your-Back" campaign, which is being conducted by all troops of the council for the purpose of securing uniforms and equipment for scouts of war-torn countries, was opened with a dramatization under the direction of William M. Carlin, Jr., chairman of activities of the council, assisted by George Bishop, neighborhood commissioner, of Doylestown. Parents of former scouts are being urged to search for unused equipment and uniforms and are asked to present them to their local troop as a contribution of the above campaign, which will end on March 15th. This campaign is being carried out in the spirit of the fourth scout law—"A Scout is friendly; he is a friend to all, and a brother to every other Scout."

BRISTOL FIVE TO TRY TO HALT THE SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Seeks To Avenge Earlier Defeats in Football, Basketball

GAME TO BE TONIGHT

Pindar, Natale, Sottile, Mama and Lelinski Possibly in First Line-Up

Bristol high will attempt to shake the jinx that the Pennsylvania School for Deaf has on it tonight when the teams clash at the Bristol high school court. The junior varsity teams of the schools will meet in the opener beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The P. S. D. team beat the Bunnies in football with a high and mediocre team, while earlier in the season the Deaf School topped Bristol by a few points, and last season the Mt. Airy boys were victorious over Bristol on the basketball court.

Coach Tom Campion and his protégés are determined to stop this streak tonight and chalk up its fourth victory in the last five starts. The team has beaten Temple High, Bensalem, and Fajisington, and lost to the Hamilton High School.

It is most likely that Pindar, Natale, Sottile, Mama and Lelinski will be in the locals' lineup at the start with Coach Campion alternating with substitutes. As this is not a Lower Bucks League contest, Coach Campion does not have to stick with the lineup turned in to league officials.

The P. S. D. quintet has three sharp-shooters in Lakin, Shickman and Huntsinger and these lads must be watched closely if the Bunnies are to check in with a triumph.

Besides Martin, Coach Harold Stackhouse will use Esposito, Wallack, Accardi, and Centofante in his starting lineup.

"Bumps" Costantino Breaks Scoring Record

Little "Bumps" Costantino, diminutive forward of the Ramblers, broke the individual scoring record of the Bristol Youth League last night as he racked up 37 points in aiding the Ramblers to trounce the Celtics, 87-50, on the Mutual Aid floor.

Costantino was scoring from all angles of the court as he amassed seven field goals and a foul in the first half of the tilt and came back to shake the cords for 11 fielders in the second half to bring his total to 18 field goals and a foul.

The previous record was 29 also held by team-mate "Lefty" DiTanna. DiTanna scored 25 points in last night's triumph to jump back into second place in the league's scoring.

The victory enabled the Ramblers to move into a tie with the Catholic Boys' Club for fourth place and gives the fifth ward aggregation a chance to get into the league play-offs.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBESON

Another trap shoot . . . this Sunday, February 17th, the Edgely Rod & Gun Club will conduct a blue rock shoot over the club traps on Haines Road.

The matches, which will get underway at one o'clock in the afternoon, are open to all shooters.

And, best of all, shells will be on sale for you shooters!

This is the first open shoot to be announced for this immediate section this year. Last Fall the Edgely boys ran a shoot also.

Local Fox Hunter . . . Nick Rubino, Bristol sportsman, is shown with a pair of grays he bagged a few days ago in Rocky Woods, near Edgely. The dog in the picture, "Harry," is one of Nick's prize foxhounds. Nick also owns another foxhound, "Sue." A past-president of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, Nick has had a lot of sport and satisfaction fox hunting the last couple of years. He says there are plenty of fox all over Bucks County and he and his friends have already killed nine this season.

We owe the fox hunters a real debt for their efforts, since every time they kill a fox we are assured of more small game at which to shoot.

New York Sport Show . . . opens Sunday at Madison Square Garden. It will continue for one week. Some outstanding exhibitions and programs have been arranged. Expect to be there on opening day with some friends from Bristol.

Undesirable legislation . . . from the offices of the Pennsylvania Game Commission comes this timely warning: "U. S. Senate Bill 1678, presented December 12 by Senator Albert W. Hawkes, New Jersey, is another one of those anti-squirrel measures designed to hamstring gun owners and if you want to keep your guns DON'T LET IT PASS! Write your U. S. Senators and Representatives immediately."

The Bill provides that EVERY RIFLE, SHOTGUN, OR PISTOL of more than .25 caliber manufactured since 1899 be registered with the F. B. I. under penalty of a $2,000 fine or imprisonment for one year or both."

News of a nationwide competition . . . to arouse all Americans to the realization and fulfillment of their duty in saving and using wisely this country's vanishing natural resources—its soil, forests, waters, minerals, and wildlife—OUTDOOR LIFE magazine is offering $5,000 in cash awards for a Conservation Pledge, similar to the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, which may be adopted by schools and all civic and patriotic groups, both youth and adult. Announcement of this competition is made in the magazine's February issue. First prize is $3,000.

Leading conservationists warn that unless we take definite, practical measures to conserve our natural resources, we're in danger of becoming a nation in need," said Raymond J. Brown, editor. "Every citizen should be made aware of this exigency and urged to do his part toward safeguarding our country's God-given treasures. Such is the aim of this competition—and the biggest prize isn't money—it's national security!"

The competition is open to everybody except employees of the publishers of OUTDOOR LIFE and their families. Pledges must not exceed 30 words. Each pledge may be accompanied by an essay of 1,000 words or less on, "Why America's Natural Resources Must Be Conserved." Entries must reach the magazine's offices, 363 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y., not later than July 31. Second prize is $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $100; with eight prizes of $50 each.
